

Stay Safe Online

A picture workbook for women in Bangladesh

Look. Colour. Learn. Know the danger, know the law, know who to call.

1

Spot the danger

Eight online traps. Circle the ones you have seen.

Fake profile

Someone pretends to be you or a stranger

Honey trap

A friendly stranger who later blackmails

Morphed photo

Your picture edited or faked to shame you

Camera hacking

Secret recording from phone or webcam

Phishing / QR scam

A link or code that steals passwords or money

Doxxing

Your address or number shared to harass you

Fake job or loan

Pay first, then nothing, or threats

Trolling

Shaming, rumours, abusive messages

2

The law is on your side

Longer bar = heavier punishment. Each bar is the maximum prison term.

Insulting or shaming someone online

Penal Code 500, fine possible

2 yr

Entering someone's account or phone

Cyber Security Act 2026, Sec 18, fine up to 10 lakh

1 yr

Pretending to be someone else

Penal Code 419, fine possible

3 yr

Sextortion, blackmail, leaked or morphed intimate pictures

Cyber Security Act 2026, Sec 25, fine up to 10 lakh

2 yr

Hacking, with data stolen or changed

Cyber Security Act 2026, Sec 18

5 yr

Online fraud, money lost

Cyber Security Act 2026, Sec 22; Penal Code 420 up to 7

5 yr

Sharing obscene or intimate images

Pornography Control Act 2012, fine up to 2 lakh

7 yr

Child sexual images

Pornography Control Act 2012, fine up to 5 lakh

10 yr

Proposed, not yet law: a draft amendment (Sep 2026) would raise Sec 25 to 5 years, and 10 years when the victim is a woman or child.

The 2023 cyber law and its sections 24, 25, 26, 28 and 29 were repealed in 2025. The current law is the Cyber Security Act 2026. These are maximums. Laws change, so ask a lawyer or helpline to confirm.

3

If it happens to you

Four steps. Follow the arrows.

1. Stay calm

It is not your fault. The criminal is at fault.

2. Save proof

Screenshot messages, profiles, links, dates. Do not delete.

3. Report

Tell police, cyber helpline or Women helpline.

4. Get support

Talk to someone you trust. Ask for counselling.

4

F. Someone pretends to be you

Put in order, then call

Write 1 to 4 in each circle. Then match each problem to a number.

A. What do I do first?

-  Report it to police or a helpline
-  Talk to someone you trust
-  Stay calm, it is not your fault
-  Save screenshots and links

B. Which number do I call? Join the circles.
